MEMORANDUM FOR: Associate Deputy Director for Intelligence

STAT FROM : A/DDCI

Paul:

In addition to the information I gave you yesterday that the ADCI wants to be able to talk about at the SSCI Hearing, we have now received some specific questions from the Committee. Two of them relate to the subject you are working on. They are as follows:

1. What have been the strengths and weaknesses in the community's response to demands for improvement in the quality of analysis?

(A) How have career programs for analysts been improved?

(B) What changes have been made in the use of outside experts?

2. There has been a good deal of criticism directed to the quality and timeliness of the intelligence product. One of the principal ingredients in the equation is the quality of the analysis. What steps are being taken to improve the quality of analytic manpower? Are there advantages that might accrue from consolidation of community analytic manpower?

Paul -

I am not leaving a requirement for a comprehensive answer to these questions. I believe IC staff has been tasked.
But I thought you'd want to have these in mind when you prepare the material I asked for yesterday.
